President Mitterrand of France arrived here today by Concorde on a flying visit for talks with President Reagan and other senior members of his administration. It was the fourth meeting of the two leaders in less than a year. American officials employing a much-used baseball meta-phor, said the purpose of the 10-hour visit was to "touch base" with Mr Reagan in advance of the seven-nation economic summit which is due to take place in Versailles in June. Record fall in mortgage rate starts new battle

By Our Banking Correspondent

The bartle between banks and building societies in the home loan market took a fresh turn yesterday as the building societies announced the biggest single fall ever in the mortgage rate only to be swiftly undercut by two of the big banks.

In the wake of the recent falls in interest rates, the Building Societies' Association Building Societies' Association recommended an expected 11 percentage point, drop in the mortgage rate to 131 per cent from the record 15 per cent prevailing since last October.

The move was quickly followed by Barclays Bank, the biggest mortgage lender among the banks.

rate from 15 per cent to 133 per cent and within two hours National Westminster had followed with a cut in its own rate from 14½ per cent to 13½ per cent. The spate of cuts, which will mean savings of £17 a month on average for home-buyers, on average for nome-buyers, immediately gave rise to arguments over who was offering the cheapest rates.

Barclays said that monthly payments for its own customers would be lower than both the building societies and the building societie some other banks quoting a 13.5 per cent rate because of differences in the way interest on home loans was worked out.

Mr John Quinton, senior clearly unsatisfactory that a 13.5 per cent rate quoted by a building society should in fact cost more than our 13.75 per cent.

"Typically, monthly repayments to us on a £10,000 25-year mortgage will be £117.20 against £117.50 to the building

However a spokesman for National Westminster coun-tered by pointing out that this tered by pointing out that this apparent advantage applied only on ordinary repayment mortgages. He said that National Westminster made no National Westminster made no extra charge for endowment mortgages while Barclays charged an extra 1 per cent and most building societies also charged an extra amount. They said that the angry scenes which forced Dr Runcie to abandon his service would not prevent moves towards oburch unity. They added that there would be no change in the Pope's programme of visits because of the protest.

Dr Runcie was shouted down as he tried to deliver a sermon on Thursday by about a hundred protestant demonstrators, some wearing the official Orange Lodge sash. The banner-waving men and from the arms race which was making them dangerously powerful, especially after the Government's decision to buy the Trident, he said. As for the press, it was neither truthful nor free. Mr Benn had been the guest of the ruling Panhellenic socialist movement (Pasok) and had talks with its leader, and his friend, Mr Andreas the Prime Papandreou, Minister. Mr Benn said that Mr Papandreou and the British Labour Party held almost identical views on the EEC, Nato and the American bases. although he agreed that the Greek socialist efforts to seek a special status within the Community rather than quit it, emanated from the greater fluidity needed in view of Greece's geographical position. The Labour Party had not opted in favour of a referendum on the EEC because, he said, "we cannot separate the election from a referendum be-cause voting for Labour means a junta in Britain".

Mr Benn said he supported Mr Papandreou's plans for a nuclear-free zone in the Balkans because he believed that nuclear deterrence was not a valid defence policy. The way the British political scene was reported in the press was quite wrong. Mr Benn said, "I do not think we have a free press in Britain today. There is not a single newspaper that I can buy, not one in Britain, that reflects my political position".

Turning to me, he added: "And The Times, dare I say to you, is really disreputable. It does not print truthfully and faithfully what happens and it pretends, because it is printed in small print that it is above argument. But it is a political propaganda instrument like The Sun, but it is printed in rather better print and rather shrewder language".

Why, he asked, "can't we have also access to our own opion? This is a serious threat to democracy, much more serious than the possibility of

The Times and its editorship

By David Felton and Donald Macintyre

A day of speculation about the editorship of The Times ended last night with an announcement by Mr Rupert Murdoch, the proprietor, that "terms have now heen agreed" for the departure of Mr Harold E. ans, the editor. Mr Murdoch confirmed that last Tuesday he had asked for Mr Evans' resignation and invited Mr Charles Douglas-Home, the deputy editor, to take over as editor.

The statement from Mr Murdoch in New York, issued in London last night by Mr Richard Searby, QC, chairman of Mr Murdoch's News Corporation, the parent company,

"It is true that I asked Mr Harold Evans for his resig-nation. This was done on Tuesday, 9th March with the unanimous approval of the independent national directors. Mr Evans agreed to give tors. My twens agreed to get his resignation, but has been negotiating the terms of his departure. These have now been agreed. At no point has there been any difference, stated or otherwise, between Ma Erece and muself about Mr Evans and myself about the policy of the paper. In those circumstances I invited Charles Douglas-Home to take over the editorship on the departure of Mr Evans, also with the approval of the independent national direc-

After a meeting on Tuesday of the board of Times Newspapers Holdings Ltd (TNHL), which includes the six independent national directors. Mr Murdoch offered Mr Douglas-Home the editorship and later asked Mr Evans, who was appointed editor just over 12 months ago, to resign. Mr Douglas-Home said last night: "I was asked up to see Rupert Murdoch on Tuesday and was told that he had spoken to the independent directors, who were of the view that Harold Evans' resignation should be asked for He asked would I edit The Times in that event, to which I agreed".

A close friend

Earlier Mr Gerald Long, company managing director, told the Press Association, the national news agency: "There is no dispute about the inde-

He was responding to suggestions by a few members of the newspaper's senior staff that Mr Murdoch was seeking Mr Evans's dismissal on political grounds. Mr Anthony Holden, features editor, said that differences of views had " led to a now quite long string of disagreements between the editor and the proprietor."

Mr Holden, a close friend of the editor, added: "Mr Mur-doch wants leaders extremely right-wing on such issues as race in this country, domestic politics, the domestic economy and such important foreign issues as Poland and El Salvador.

"He has complained about articles on the main feature page such as Ray Buckton presenting the Aslef case during the railways dispute even though we carried a reply from British Rail the following day, E P Thompson writing on Poland, the fact that we have printed Social Democratic Party views, although I have been careful to ensure that their opponents received equal space," Mr Holden said.

That view was strongly denied by Mr Douglas-Home, who said: There has been to my knowledge, and I have worked closely with the editor, absolutely no instruction or vestige of an instruction to the editor to publish or not to publish any political article. There has been no undue pres-sure to influence the editor's policy or decisions."

Day of confusion

The Murdoch announce-ment came after confusion during the day over the exact part played by the national directors, who have to approve the dismissal or appointment —but not the resignation—of editors of The Times and The Sunday Times. That principle is enshrined in guarantees attached by Mr John Biffen, Secretary of State for Trade. to his approval of Mr Murdoch's takeover of the newspapers last year.

The actual appointment of a new editor still has to be made by the board of Times Newspapers Ltd.

The relevant clause in the statement made by Mr Biffen reads: "The editor of The Sunday Times and the editor of The Times shall not be appointed or dismissed without the approval of the majority of the independent national directors of TNHL." The independent directors.

all of whom are understood to have attended Tuesday's meeting of the TNHL board, are Lord Greene of Harrow Weald, Lord Robens, Lord Dacre of Glanton, Lord Roll of Ipsden, Sir Edward Pickering and the sixth, Mr John Gross, who was appointed on Tuesday.

They gave a warning that the threat of industrial action was looming over the offer, which they said was derisory and would leave most ancilary staff below the official

a new ice age

By the Staff of "Nature"
The possibility that instabilities of the ice sheet of east Antarctica may cause east Antarctica may cause future ice ages has been raised by two American glaciologists. Sudden changes in the Antarctic ice sheets have been thought to be responsible for worldwide glaciation, but until now most attention has been concentrated on the glaciation, but until now most attention has been concentrated on the west Antarctic ice sheet, which is unstable because its base lies well below sea level.

Instability of the Antarctic ice sheets can affect the Earth's climate in two ways. If large tracts of ice break off, more sunlight will be reflected directly back, and the melting ice will cool the courteern occurs. Although southern oceans. Although the east Antarctic ice shelf is largely grounded on land lying above sea level, it is much bigger than that of west Antarctica. Instability could be generated by the accumulation of snow and ice on its upper reaches, perhaps resulting in a sudden surge of ice.

Evidence for such a surge has been inferred from raised sea levels of about 8 metres in the Pacific 120,000 years ago. Dr Gerald Schubert, from the University of California at Los Angeles, and Dr David Yuen, from Arizona State Yuen, from Arizona State University, have now suggested how the east Antarcuc ice sheet could surge. They say the ice's normal slow deformation could accelerate dramatically if a significant portion of the ice sheet exceeded a critical thickness of about five kilometres. This is because the ice sheet is warmer at its base than at the surface, due to geothermal heating, and because ice heating, and because ice deforms more readily at warmer temperatures.

The estimated thickness is close to the measured maximum thickness of about four kilo-metres, suggesting that the ice sheet is close to the point where instability may occur.
Once it becomes unstable and starts to slide rapidly. frictional heating could accelerate the surge.

The thickening needed to reach instability must come reach instability must come from increased snowfall over the Antarctic, which could be produced by variations in global warming by the Sun. The new model may, therefore, provide a link between astronomical theories for the inception of ice ages based on calculations of the parion calculations of the variations of the solar distance and the inclination of the Earth and the ice sheet surge theories, by using the former to initiate the latter. Wrong statute for indecent behaviour

Parkin v Norman Valentine v Lilley

Before Lord Justice Donaldson and Mr Justice McCullough [Judgment delivered March 10] Where allegations were made of indecent behaviour of a homosexual nature in public lavatories, charges under section 5 of the Public Order Act 1936, as amended, would, more often than not, prove inappropriate.

The Divisional Court not, prove inappropriate.

The Divisional Court so observed, allowing Thomas Henry Parkin's appeal by case stated from Nottingham Crown Court (Judge Ellis and two justices) who dismissed his appeal against conviction by Mansfield justices for an offence under section 5 of Robin James Valentine's appear for a similar offence.

Section 5 provides: "Any person who in any public place... uses threatening, abushe wanted his behaviour to be seen by the only other person present at the urinals in a public lavatory. In each case, unknown to the appellant, the other person was a police officer in plain clothes who, after a suitable interval, arrested him.

Each was convicted and appealed by case stated. Each submitted that the behaviour was not insulting and that no breach wanted his behaviour to be Having regard to the tenor of the 1936 Act as a whole, their Lordships believed that no such intent need be proved, despite the words of Viscount Dilhorne in Cozens v Brutus ([1973] AC 854, 865G). What was required was conduct of a threatening, abusive or insulting character which was likely in the circumstances to occasion a breach of the peace. It occasion a breach of the peace. It did not matter whether abyone felt himself to have been threatened, abused or insulted.

Insulting behaviour did not lose its insulting character simply because no one who witnessed it was insulted, any more than it would lose its ability to provoke a breach of the peace merely because no one who witnessed it broke the peace.

The words of the statute were: "whereby a breach of the peace witnessed it broke the peace.

The words of the statute were:
"whereby a breach of the peace is likely to be occasioned" and not "liable to be occasioned".

That was a penal provision and the courts had to take care that the courts had to take care that the former expression was not treated as if it were the latter.

The Act did not make it criminal to use offensive or disgusting behaviour whereby a breach of the peace was likely to be occasioned. It required, in the present case, insulting behaviour. What then was an insult?

An insult was perceived by someone who felt insulted. The word "insult" presupposed a subject and a human object.

subject and a human object.

The appellant's conduct was The appellant's conduct was aimed at only one person who, he hoped, was a homosexual. He was not trying to insult that person, and another homosexual would surely not have felt insulted. In fact the person at whom the conduct was aimed was a police officer who was there to catch anyone behaving in that way. It was unrealistic to say that he would have felt insulted.

The person importuned, for that was what the appellant's conduct amounted to, might very well have been an ordinary heterosexual using the lavatory for its proper purpose. On the basis that the appellant's conduct was tantamount to the statement. "I believe you are another homosexual", which the average heterosexual would regard as insulting, the conduct could fairly be regarded as potentially insulting, and could therefore be described as insulting behaviour. Was a breach of the peace likely to result?

could have been sure that that was likely. The court could only have convicted the appellant by treating the word "likely" as "liable" and accordingly the conviction would be quashed.

Of the questions posed in Valentine's case stated, two valentine's case stated, two involved questions canvassed above: namely, in deciding whether behaviour was insulting and whether a breach of the peace was likely, it was proper to take into account the reactions, not only of the person to whom the behaviour was addressed but the behaviour was addressed, but of others who might have observed it.

In their Lordships' judgment it was right to take that matter into account for the purpose of deciding both questions.

Neither the appellant nor the police officer was likely to break the peace and no third party was likely to have observed the appellant's conduct. It was possible that someone might have seen and might have caused a breach of the peace. The matter was likely to the peace, but no court could have been sure that that was likely. The court could only have convicted the appellant by treating the word "likely" as "liable" and accordingly the was likely. The court could only have convicted the appellant by treating the word "likely" as "liable" and accordingly the would accordingly be quashed.

The Secretary of State for the Environment was entitled to require local authorities to have their accounts audited against their wishes by an additional district auditor, and such action was not ultra vires and was not contrary to the policy and objects of the Local Government Act 1972.

Where the words of a statutory Where the words of a statutory provision andly described the conduct complained of there could be no objection in law to framing a charge under that provision. But those cases demonstrated the difficulties which could sometimes occur when behaviour was charged under a provision which was never designed to deal with it.

Each charge depended upon its own facts, but if proper attention was paid, as it should be, to the word "likely" in the phrase "whereby a breach of the peace is likely to be occasioned," section 5 of the Public Order Act 1936 would more offer than part section 5 of the Public Order Act, 1936 would, more often than not, prove to be an inappropriate charge in the case of homosexual activity in public lavatories.

secretary of state had the power to appoint such district auditors as he thought necessary. There was no warrant for assuming that anything in the 1972 Act required district auditors to be organized in geographical districts.

As long as he did not act unreasonably, the way in which the secretary of state organized the accounts to be audited was up to him. It followed that there was no reason why he should not take out a particular account from a geographical district and announce that he was going to appoint a specific district auditor to audit that account as long as he thought it to be necessary. It followed that the secretary of state had not acted ultra vires.

The second argument, based on the decision in Padfield v Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food (1968) AC 997) that a minister should not use his discretion under an Act to thwart practitioners, and the secretary of state was taking away that choice. However the only choice a local authority had was if it decided to appoint an approved auditor in private practice, when it could choose anyone so approved, if it did not elect to make such a choice it had to use whoever the secretary of state appointed as district auditor. The question was not one of personal choice; the local authority had none. It could not influence the secretary of state in his che or complain when it was m and the action would fail.

It was argued on behalf of the appellant that since the original film existed it should have been produced in court and that the prosecution were not entitled to rely upon a copy since that was secondary evidence, the production of which could not be justified in such circumstances.

However, the court did not agree. The old rule that a party must produce the best evidence that the nature of the case would allow and that any less good evidence was to be excluded, had gone by the board long ago. The only remaining instance of it was that if an original document was available in one's hands it must be produced.

Nowadays the court was not confined to the best evidence but admitted all relevant evidence. The goodness or badness of it went only to weight and not to admissibility.

Accordingly the justices were entitled to rely upon a copy which they were satisfied was an Mr Justice Forbe

Accordingly the Justices were entitled to rely upon a copy which they were satisfied was an authentic copy of the original. The appellant complained that because the cameramen were not called, the justices could not be satisfied that the alleged incident took place on July 3, 1981.

The court did not agree. The justices were fully entitled from the evidence before them to be satisfied as to the date.

The appellant further com-plained that the original film had been edited in order to reduce it to the appropriate length and in the absence of the cameraman it was not possible to tell whether the film showed the events in their true sequence.

it accurately showed the activities of the appellant.

The appellant finally complained that the justices found that it was a "matter of common knowledge" that a public house in the area was destroyed by fire on the evening of July 3, 1981.

However, the court agreed with the observations of Lord Widgery in Wetherall v Harrison (1976) I QB 773), that it was wrong to conclude that the use by justices of their own local or personal knowledge was governed by the same rule laid down in the case of a trained judge. This was an event of startling notoriety in their area and the fact of which they sought to take judicial notice was merely while deap of the firm in represent of and the fact of which they sought to take judicial notice was merely the date of the fire, in respect of which there was sufficent evi-dence before them.

The justices were therefore entitled in the absence of any evidence given by or on behalf of the appellant, to convict him and the appeal was dismissed.

people on youth opportunities schemes used to get jobs when finishing the scheme; this was no longer the case. The YOP scheme had been exploited by some unscrupulous employers simply to provide cheap labour and to remove the necessity for them to employ full-time workers on decent pay.
The Government planned to reduce the weekly pay for workers on the scheme to £15 and refuse them supplementary benefit entitlement if they benefit entitlement if they refused to join. There would be no incentive for employers to provide training or to take people into permanent jobs because as far as they could see into the future there were going to be legions of Tebbit trainees.

There was every evidence the scheme would continue to scheme would continue to provide a source of cheap labour

That was why it was vitally important that youngsters should be trained and should leave school with some kind of leave school with some kind of vocational experience.

At least this Government was doing something about it, when the provious Labour Government did nothing.

Whatever happened to the 16 to 19-year-olds must be soundly based on what had happened before during the compulsory school years. Education in the fourth and fifth years must be made more effective and a greater pre-vocational element must be introduced in those years. It was about time this was done and the Government was proposing to do it.

An unmilitant tendency not to lean on Mr Wall

Why has the official Labour response to Mr Pat Wall been so muted? He said in a speen last week that a Marxist Labour government would have to abolish the monarchy and the House of Lords, and and the House of Lords, and sack the generals, admirals and air marshals, the senior civil servants and police chiefs and, in particular, the judges. Not quite what one would expect to read in the next Labour manifesto.

So on Monday the organization sub-committee of the National Executive Com-mittee considered afresh his position as prospective parliamentary candidate for Brad-ford North, a role to which he has been elected in preference to the sitting right-wing MP, Mr Ben Ford, by the local constituency party — or rather by its general management committee — but in which he has

On the first weekend of the 1982 Bradford tourist sea-son, Ian Bradley reports on how visitors are being lured to the city of derelict ware-houses and disused railway cuttings.

As factories and workshops go on short time or close, railway sidings rust and shops are boarded up, the industrial parts of Britain come more and more to resemble a derelict urban wasteland, the symbols of their former strength and prosperity standing like tombstones of a lost civiliza-

Seen from another point of view these areas provide an enormous potential museum of Britain's industrial past. With industrial archeology and railway mania among the fastest growing national pastimes, can tourists not be lured to the dark satanic mills and derelict sidings of northern towns where once the only thought was of escape to the warm south?

This idea of reversing the normal flow of tourist traffic within Britain is being taken up by a number of northern industrial cities. None has seized it with quite such enthusiasm as the metropoli-tan district of Bradford which is building a successful tourist industry on the basis of its mills, old railway lines and other relics of the days when it was Worstedopolis, the woollen textile capital of the world. Bradford suffers from what the advertising men would call a severe image problem when it comes to promoting its charms as a tourist resort. It has the unenviable distinction for example, of having the least visited cathedral in the British Isles.

There is an understandably defensive air about the brochure which the city council puts out to encourage visi-tors. The title on its front cover reads "Bradford Metropolitan District — a surprising place".

In fact the business of promoting tourism has been taken very seriously by the city fathers. It is undertaken by the council's economic development unit (whose motto is "the myth breakers") which two years ago appointed a full-time tourism officer, Maria Glot. Last year she received more than 8,000 inquiries about the weekend breaks which are the most successful features

This weekend sees the the first of a series of weekends based on West Yorkshire's extensive steam railway network. A group of enthusiasts will be exploring the delights of the Middleton colliery railway, the first in the world to have a steam powered locomotive (in 1812), which is now run by enthusiasts to carry scrap metal from the main line to local firms as well as for passenger trips. Also included in the weekend tour are visits to two of the country's best known preserved railways, the Worth Valley between Keighley and Oxenhope, and the Yorkshire Dales, and to the National Railway Museum in Vork

The railway weekends will be alternating with weekends exploring Bradford's indus-trial heritage. They proved particularly popular last year, the highlight being a visit to Saltaire, the model village created by the great Victorian industrialist and philanthropist, Sir Titus Salt, to house the workers in his enormous worsted mill which still dominates the Aire valley. There is also a tour of television programmes about the Industrial Revolution.

The noise of the spinning and weaving machines is deafening, the stench of the dyeing vats overpowering. The machinery is still essen tially the same as that found in Bradford's industrial museum and much of it is operated, as it always has been, by women.

It would be hard to find a more powerful expression of the two nations theme than the vision of well-heeled pen pushers from the stock-broker belt coming up north to watch the manual working classes and inspect the monu-ments to their toil. Yet Bradfordians show no sense of envy or discomfiture about their new status as quaint relics of a vanishing industrial civilization. Rather they display to their visitors an intense pride in their past and present achievements and regale them with the straightforward, practical philosophizing which has always been part of the Yorkshire character. If they are to go the way of the Greeks and Portuguese, they will do so with dignity, with a proper Pennine pride and with a good deal of honest West Riding grit. Ian Bradley

Why Mayor Koch should run and run his office at Gracie Mansion, and lounging not unlike the cratic and odalisque in the painting, parties. The second and lounging Koch, the 6ft more crucial fact. In Jewish Mayor of New Koch's own political controls of the cratic and cratic York, tells a favourite story. "I was in a pensioners' home in the Bronx and I was which most southerners only addressing nearly 200 elderly know about from books and men and women. 'Ladies and television programmes about gentlemen', I said. 'I know crime is on your mind and I want to tell you that a judge was mugged this week ... and do you know what he did, ladies and gentlemen? He called a press conference and said to reporters: 'This mugging of me will in no way affect my judgment and decisions in matters of this kind.' At which point one of those old grandmas you always get at the back of the hall stood up and said — 'then mug him again'."

That story always gets a few laughs and "Hizzoner" the Mayor is fond of jokes, well satisfied that he is known, variously, as "Mayor Culpa", "Mayatollah" and 'New York's nut uncle". He regularly refers to his critics as "dummies" and once called Billy Carter a "whacko".

His answers to reporters' His answers to reporters' questions frequently run only to one word: "baloney" or "bullshit". Koch is well aware of the impact of such slogans and he appreciates the value, in television-dominated milieu, of the quick quip, the witty aside that makes an ideal 30-second television slot. Many of the best quotes about him are his best quotes about him are his own, such as "People like me because I shoot from the lip".

That popularity has continued long enough for it to be now considered an interesting phenomenon because it means that although Koch often seems to shoot his off casually he nevertheless expressing what a good many Americans feel inside. The simple one-liners are not as simple as they sound and are in fact this politician's way of communicating direct with the public without the intervening and possibly distorting medium of a reporter or television interviewer.

As recently as last year he said that his vow at the Wailing Wall in Jerusalem was "binding". More recently he was re-elected

Sitting under a Matisse in Mayor of New York having been endorsed by both Demo-cratic and Republican parties. The second is the Koch's own political views are changing and what we are seeing is a new political philosophy being worked out, and in public. He is for the most part (and like many people) a bundle of moods and views that were once contradictory (like being a liberal and being for capital punishment) but now no longer appear so. He is no ideologue, has an abhorrence of them, and senses, much in the way of the SDP in the way of the SDP in Britain, that for the time being people do not want ideologies of any kind thrust at them. He knows that if he can tap the mood of the state, as he has undoubtedly tapped the mood of the city, there will be no stopping him. Nobody has mentioned the White House yet — but Koch himself, when announcing that he would run for Governor last week, refused to rule out higher office such as the Vice-Presidency (and who, deep down, wants that when he can have the other?).

Important as it is to understand his style and what it means, it would mean nothing without some achievements, however controversial. So what are they? When Koch took over New York, on January 1, 1978 the city was virtually bankrupt and facing, as you may remember, an annual deficit put at somewhere between 750,000 and 2,000m dollars. During the previous years, middle-class taxpayers had flown the city in droves and taken 600,000 jobs with them, more than the population of Buffalo, the state's second largest city. Nineteen major companies, like Singer and American Airlines, had gone. The city's securities could not be sold to raise money since investment analysts rated them officially as "junk bonds".

Within three weeks of taking over, the new Mayor presented to the Treasury in Washington a fiscal recovery plan which envisaged balancing the budget by "fiscal '83", i.e., the year beginning July 1, 1982. President Carter was impressed, granted the co-operation Koch sought and gave New York the 2,000m dollar loan guarantees needed to get the city going

By last year, 12 months ahead of schedule, New York's books were indeed balanced, and with a surplus of 200m dollars. Koch did this by limiting the increase in city spending to less than a per cent a year company. 4 per cent a year, compared with 11 per cent by the rederal government, and by eliminating thousands of city jobs. He did it too by encouraging businesses to come back to New York through tax cuts and an increase in the budget of the increase in the budget of the Office for Economic Development, which looks after services to industry.

As a result, 110,000 new jobs have been created in the city in the past 18 months, spare office capacity has declined from 15 per cent in 1976 to 3 per cent result.

1976 to 3 per cent now, retail sales have surged by 16 per cent and last year the city security bonds regained their. credit rating as a good investment.

But - there is always a but the way this turn-around is been achieved has brought Koch some vociferous critics. The 75,000 city jobs saved, for instance, have involved cutting the police to the middle classes. " I force by a massive 20 per want the middle-class to cent, 19,000 teachers have know they have a friend in gone, along with 2,000 of the city's 2,500 road sweepers. The tunnel under Park Avenue has just been de-clared in danger of collapse by some engineers and the city's water system leaks 100 million gallons of water every day.

In this year's budget, Koch has decided that the city can afford 1,000 more policemen. 1,000 more teachers and 400 more school guards. Fine, say his critics but they see this only as proof of their argument. Koch got rid of the policemen and teachers in the first place—and why do the schools need those guards?

Sir, In an otherwise sympathetic assessment of the case for Trident you call on the Prime Minister in your leader of March 8 "to issue a full defence

you do no more than acknow-ledge is that the United Kingdom

Alliance strategy and objectives.

Resource allocation has become crucial for our Allies, as well as ourselves, as budgetary constraints intensify. Hence the within the Alliance two percep-tions must prevail. The first is that Trident, is incremental at Trident might hamper what is obviously the United Kingdom's most important contribution to the Alliance — her maritime role and in particular her antisubma-

Prison conditions From Sir Alan Richmond

Sir, May I support Dr J. E. Thomas (March 4) and add from recent personal experience of the education service within prisons and especially of the smaller training prisons with low security

The May report has not only solved little, but has caused Prison Department reorganis

the successful implementation of rehabilitation and education which, security and punishment apart; is supposed to be central to Home Office penal policy.

The shocking physical conditions in many of the older prisons are made worse by the unbelievable degree of overcrowding. Yet large sums of capital have been spent in one instance to provide the largest purpose-built chapel in the area in modern times for minimal use.

Mental health

Sir, Professor John Gunn in his letter of March 4 very properly draws attention to the problems likely to ensue if further restrictions are placed upon the treat-ment of those compulsorily detained in mental hospitals. It is, of course, right that before any irreversible treatment is given, such as electro-convulsive therapy or more importantly a leucotomy, the opinion of an independent consultant should be sought, but if this procedure is to be invoked in respect of drug therapy then it will place unacceptable burdens upon therapists.

At the present time there is great difficulty in obtaining places in hospital for mentally disordered offenders and if added restrictions are placed on treatment it seems certain that the position will become even more difficult with the consequent

Sir, It is seldom that I find myself in agreement with Lord Kaldor. But his letter (March 9) expresses precisely a fundamental truth. If unemployment is to be defeated by reflation, the unavoidable price to be paid is wage and salary control and price and rent control, with all the political struggling and bureaucracy which these involve. Otherwise the remedy is purely transient and the end result for the patient is worse than his first state.

Those who advocate flation" as a cure for unemploy-ment (i.e. the leaders of the Labour and Social Democratic parties) must be repeatedly asked whether they are also advocating wage, price and salary control. If they will not come clean they are offering a dishonest prospectus. Only the Liberals seem to have unpalatable accepted

The Thatcher system of controlling prices by competition and monetary restraint, and wages by unemployment, has at least the merit of logic, even if it is at the same time brutal. We can, as it were, choose amputation or splinting in perpetuity. What we cannot have is a cure by painless monetary injection, however big.

Yours faithfully,

TAYLOR, House of Lords, March 11.

Budget question

From Mr Hugh Williams Sir, Isn't it odd how, year after year, successive Chancellors fail to make the one logical, obvious and uncontroversial change in the Budget — namely to change the end of the income-tax year from April 5 to March 31.?

future date we might be faced with the extinction of these islands...when in return we might only be able to threaten a few cities." All other tax years (ie corporation tax, VAT, etc) end on March 31; all other Government department accounts run to March 31; there is even a law which directs the Government to end all its financial years on March 31 and yet, for some extraordinary and unexplained reason, we still have to complete our tax returns with details that related to the illogical and maddeningly awkward year which begins on April 6 in one year and ends on April 5 in the

Roberts Sir, In his letter (March 11) Mr. Griffith rebukes his employers, the RSPCA, for making their cattle market inspectors redundant. In so doing, he claims that no one — and he includes local authority inspectors and the ministry staff — cares about the welfare of animals in markets. With respect, that claim is just not true, at least so far as this authority is concerned, as its enforcement actions, including prosecutions, bear witness. We care and shall continue to care.

So far as the ministry are concerned, whilst I cannot speak for them directly, I must say that we work closely with their field officers and their ready veterin-ary assistance and advice is valued. Your readers should also be aware that some of the major auctions have a veterinary surgeon present or available on a retained basis and they have assisted my inspectors on a

Gamble on the arts

From Mr Patrick Howarth Sir, After reading in your columns (March 4) of the opening of the spiendid, but costly, new arts centre in the City of London I strolled out to look at another cultural complex, which is near-ing completion here in Cannes. This complex will also provide Cannes with a new casino.

Not for the first time I found myself wondering why in Britain, when we build a new and inevitably uneconomic centre for the arts, we never seem to equip it with facilities for roulette and other pastimes from which the management can derive a profit.

He will, for half a day at Canterbury, also be the guest of the Church of England, though the proceedings are planned to embrace all the other considerable Christian churches in the land. It is not a "state" visit. The Pope does not make them. The fact that he is head of the Vatican state is least of his dignities. But this Pope's journeys have, assumed some of the charac-. teristics of a royal progress.

It is at this point that various misgivings appear. One is that, if the expec-tation is entertained of a multitudinous triumph of the sort achieved elsewhere, the Pope's party may be disap-pointed. The English and Scots are not famously demonstrative except at football and Roman Catholics are not all that thick on the ground; and while the Pope is much admired he is also a controversial figure, some of whose moral admonitions provoke contradiction outside and even inside his com-

2 Crown Office Row,

Sir, The article purporting to describe the nature and quality of the Sharrow Bay Hotel in your edition of March 6 must be challenged in common justice since, in my experience, it is misleading in both general dis-cription and specific detail. The food is exceptional and the comfort, care and attention to detail outstanding.

Were it not so unbalanced an account, in my experience of the hotel, it might be held to have a certain grotesque chance as indicating yet again the diverse nature of individual response: the equivalent, perhaps, of a com-plaint against a Rolls-Royce because the suspension fails to disguise every pothole in our frost-damaged roads, the passenger is known to consume gin before dinner, and even the chauffeur is suspected of cleaning his teeth with paste rather than rinsing them gently in a little, very dry, Chablis. as its advantages.

The mistakes of the head of a despotically structured society are much more society are much more dangerous than those of a society where authority is less concentrated. Hitler's decision to invade Russia was utterly disastrous for the German state.

The mistakes made by popes at the turn of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries about missionary policy in China and at the turn of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries about the impact of biblical criticism cost their church dear. Again, when its head is incapacitated for any reason the whole of a centralized, monarchical society is affected. The whole English state by the papal schism between 1378 and 1414.

An alternative type of distributing authority in church was given prominence by the publication last year of a pamphlet called Authority in the Anglican Communion, consisting of four documents resulting from the Anglican primates' meeting in Washington DC consensus. And at times consensus. And at times political societies where authority is dispersed have looked like this, as in some phases of the bistory of Holland or of the United States.

But this has not, in fact, been the result in that loose federation of religious bodies called the Anglican Communion, where the actuality of "dispersed authority' pre-

Mary, an inveterate snob, it was not the least of the attractions of Nicolson's wife, Vita Sackville West, to know that she was the daughter of Lord

Sackville, that her ancestral home was Knole, the huge Elizabethan house two miles from Long Barn, that she was rich and well-travelled, that she surrounded herself with clever and famous people, and that she managed silver, spaniels, and servants with equal facility. As Campbell's dislike of England and the Nicosons very keenly, the Nicolsons' wealth and generosity seemed a reproach to his own poverty. At the dinners they gave he sat

shop to find the children alone in an empty house, doors and windows flung wide, and Camp-bell gone up to London to get drunk with John or Heseltine.

It was his drinking that made

Mary turn to a sympathetic Vita for comfort. Vita was only too willing to provide it. Sympathy rapidly grew into something more powerful. Mary was an unusually vivacious and beautiful woman; Vita had been an active lesbian since before her marriage to Harold (who was himself a homosexual). In later years

Vita came to bear a strong resemblance to a crusty Anglo-Indian colonel, but in 1927 she a woman to whom she owed so much gratitude, and whom she little consequence.

Meanwhile Campbell was quite unaware of what was happening. He seems to have been pleased that his wife had found a friend. The problem of earning enough money to keep his family still tormented him; even the small rent the Camp-that Vita offered a partial solution. The Nicolsons owned a small, new house set a little further up the slope from Long Barn. Called "the gardener's cottage", it actually housed their two children and a nanny.

Vita now suggested that the Campbells should move into this cottage, rent free, to stay as long as they liked. To her it must have seemed a masterly combination of beneficence and self-interest. Meeting with Mary would now be not only easy, but inevitable. Campbell

That night the Campbell children woke crying to an empty house, the curtains flying from open windows, the furniture flung about. I terrified, took refuge with Vita, and (according to Campbell's imaginative account) Dorothy Wellesley, whom Vita had summoned by telephone to Long Barn, sat up all night with a shot-gun across her knees. The next day Vita's diary laconically records her belief that Roy was half mad. But Campbell's rage could not be sustained at such a pitch for long. Mary was surprised by the violence of his outburst, and frightened by it, but she refused to leave Vita. For days Campbell argued, cajoled, and threatened. He chased Mary with a kitchen-knife. He demanded a divorce. When even this failed to move Mary, he subsided. He could hardly thrash Vita, and Harold had returned to his post abroad on October 23. Campbell had no money, no prospects, and now, it seemed, no wife.

But once his anger had cooled he began to realize how much his own behaviour had been responsible for Mary's betrayal. He blamed himself as much as he blamed her. In these circumstances, he vacil-lated agonizingly: he could not bear to leave her and he could not bear to stay.

According to Harold Nicolson's biographer, James Lees-Milne, Campbell was meanwhile himself having a brief affair with a bisexual friend of Vita's, Dorothy Warren, who ran the Warren Galleries. Possibly he hoped to arouse Mary's jealousy by such action.

At this point he fell ill; appendicitis was diagnosed, and in February he was taken to hospital for an operation. His illness, and the period of convalescence that followed, gave him an excuse to stay where he was, still hoping that Mary would take pity on him, or that Vita would tire of Mary. It was during this period, in the bitter winter of 1928, that Laurens van der Post arrived in London from South Africa, and wrote to Campbell. The next day he received a reply:

My dear Laurens.

- 1. Go to Charing Cross Station at once
- Buy a ticket for Sevenoaks (2/9 single or 5/- return) Get in the train for Seven-
- oaks (the porter will do it all for you if you tell him you're a stranger. He'll show you the right train give him a sixpence.).

 Get out at Sevenoaks station.

 When you get out at Sevenoaks you'll see plenty of taxis. Get in one and tell him to drive to Weald Village.

 When you get to Weald Village ask at the Post When you get to Weald Village ask at the Post Office, the butcher's, the baker's, or any of the shops, and they will tell you where I live. Weald is only a tiny village, everybody knows my house there...

Campbell was pathetically pleased to see Van der Post. Mary took advantage of his stay to disappear for three weeks, Vita being away at the same time. Van der Post was hor-rified at the squalor in which Campbell was living, scarcely stirring from his bed, and at his emaciation. He wrote later:

"I could hardly believe that the man who had walked the beach in the dark, comforting a hurt little girl in his arms and reciting a great poem with the voice of a prophet, and this thin, shivering bulk of a human being in torn and tattered clothes, could be one and the Van der Post could hardly believe that Campbell would recover. Though Campbell did not confide in him, he sensed that this dreadful change had something to do with Mary. Campbell was drinking heavily and continuously, mostly gin and cider because of their cheapness, and he spent his days, half-dressed in his bed, reading back numbers of the German magazine Der Querschmitt. There were very few blankets in the house, and Van der Post found it difficult to sleep because of the cold. Several times he woke to find that Campbell had covered him during the night with his own blanket, and he was astonished that even in this extremity of misery Campbell did not forget his duty to a guest.

It was days before Van der Post was able to persuade Campbell to accompany him to London to meet another South African, the journalist and painter Enslin du Plessis. Although it was a bitingly cold day, Campbell wore neither overcoat nor tie, but clasped a thin jacket over his grey flannel trousers, so torn that the skin of his buttocks was visible; he was unwashed and unshaven, They met Du Plessis in Fleet Street, and went to Grooms', an old coffee house, for a meal

Mary's return brought Campbell no relief. He lingered at Long Barn for a time, as hope faded: At last, in April 1928, he gave up. Unable to endure any longer the daily sight of Vita and Mary together, he sadly packed a small bag and took the train to London. He did not return; he had determined to leave England. To go back to South Africa was inconceivable. Instead he crossed the Channel and made his way to Martigues in Provence, where he and Mary had had such a pleasant holiday the previous summer. In that beautiful sunny village, so full of memor-ies of past happiness, he hoped to find consolation. He was on the run again.

This is an extract from Peter Alexander's Roy Campbell, A Critical Biography, which is published on March 18 by the Oxford University Press, price £12.50. He begged her to return, but she was still in love with Vita

Campbell arrived in Provence lonely and despairing, his self-confidence shattered. He knew the strength of Vita's hold on Mary; she offered her love, comfort, support, and wealth, and she had the sort of social position which so impressed

He began writing a stream of desperate, pathetic letters to Mary, begging her to join him. He could not live without her, he wrote; more importantly he could not write without her; he would give up drinking, he would give up drinking, he would do anything to make her happy, she would see how he had changed... And to Campbell's delight, the imposible happened. Many agreed to return to him. The poet saw this as the surest evidence of her continued long for him. In fact. continued love for him. In fact, however, there is clear evidence that she was still deeply in love with Vita. Why did she return to her husband?

The answer seems to be that she was urged to do so by Vita, to whom she had become an embarrassment. Vita's fluid affections had begun ebbing quite early in the relationship. Moreover, she was at the same time carrying on no fewer than five other, separate affairs, one them with Virginia Woolf Virginia, engaged in writing Orlando, was a frequent visitor to Long Barn; she knew about Vita's affair with Mary, and was intensely jealous. She proved a rival Mary could not hope to match

Vita's increasing coldness, com bined with Campbell's humble and desolate letters, persuaded Mary to return to him relieved. Mary arrived in Marti-gues with their two daughters on 12 May 1928, to find Campbell apparently very ill and overjoyed to have her back. They found a cheap little house and with Mary to look after him Campbell quickly regained his health.

But though he recovered quickly and completely, there is ample evidence that his marriage did not. Mary was still deeply in love with Vita, to whom she wrote almost dailv: hastily pencilled letters on odd scraps of paper, posted secretly when Campbell was out of the house. Having settled Campbell in the Rue St Mitre, she returned briefly to England to see Vita for ten days in June, and again in November 1928. Each time Campbell must have wondered whether she would return. Bu December she was once again despairing of living with him, and talking of separating from him and living alone. It was only gradually that they learned once again to live together as man and wife.

chickens were massacred and left lying all over the run headless, to the agony of the child in charge of locking them away at the time. I can forgive them for taking hens for food, but not for the fun of slaughter, and yet I wonder if it is only a desire to keep down the fox population which makes one

A many gendered thing

The release of a cluster of Rollywood films about homosexuality is, in these Moral Majority days, surprising. The box-office success in America of two such films—the male homosexual Making Love and the lesbian Personal Rest—is, I think, disturbing. But when in Blake Edwards's forthcoming Victor, Victoria, Robert Presson is seen in bed with another man in the opening shot, and James Garner falls in love—with a man who is, in fact, a female transvestite—and, indeed, when this same female transvestite—and, indeed, when this same female transvestite is a drag something—that approaches

To a lot of people in things up. She does so here, though disguised as The other Man about his cruel father who tried to force him to play baseball as a child, "I went out to a gay bar for the stereotypes (and "manly" Man sleep together in soft female transvestite—and, indeed, when this same female transvestite is a drag something—that approaches

And that, I think, is that women's worrying. Against Towne's better instincts, he has made a voyeuristic film of a peculiar kind. Though some American critics see within Personal Best images of "beauty and innocence", "a celebration of womens' bodies" and "a film about normal life", such praise beats me. Personal Best is a teenage magazine film which illustrates Towne's fondness for women's sweat socks, running shoes, calves, thighs,

It would be foolish to deny that women's athletics today are without sex appeal, but if that is all Towne gets from that is all lowne gets from them, he is missing a great deal. In the same way that Personal Best lacks real understanding about the pursuit of excellence in athletics — compare its track sequences to Chariots of Fire — so the story of the lesbian love affair is just as surface and adolescent. It is also dispensable. For Marial Hemingway only "finds her-self", her true, acceptable, adult self, when she has abandoned her lesbian lover for the love of a man. The implied message is clear: it's OK to be a lesbian if it's a passing phase. Which brings me all too briefly to the glorious Victor, Victoria starring the transvestite Julie Andrews as a drag queen. Here I will no doubt be accused of enjoying the camp stereotypes I am supposed to be against. True, but compared to The New Realism of Personal Best and Making Love, give me Blake Ed-wards' gay version of Inspec-tor Clouseau any day.

Chess/Harry Golombek Masterly youngsters

How do you popularize chess birthday the day following and how do you ensure a the tournament. of chess from beginners to club player, then to county player, then to national player, to master-player and finally to grandmaster? There is one infallible way and that is catch-'em young. Chess is eminently a game for the quick in mind, that is, for the young. There used to be two mistaken prejudices against the game among nonchessplayers. One was that it was a slow game-fit-only for greybeards and the other was that it tended to distract children from their studies and to slow up their academic progress.

The truth is the reverse.
Just look at the number of children who play and excel at the game nowadays. As for the second prejudice, there is no better training for the mind than chess which teaches us how to concentrate and es us how to concentrate and think logically.

This year's Arc Young Masters Chess Congress, so-called because it is sponsored by the Amey Roadstone Corporation, was held at Westergate from February 26-28. It was a pronounced success, containing one grandmaster and 11 international masters, together national masters, together with masses of children whose enthusiasm was a delight to watch. There were 68 players in the principal event, the Arc Young Masters' tournament, in which players of all ages competed and five other tournaments limited to certain ages: the under-21, under-16, under-14, under-12 and under-10.

Six rounds were played in three days and there was a close struggle for the top prizes (1st £900, 2nd £520, 3rd £260, 4th £150, 5th £100, 6th £40). In the end three tied for top place so that grandmaster Johnathan Speelman, R. Britton and A. Martin all received £560 with a score of 5 points. Two international masters, William Hartston and James Plaskett, shared the next place with R. Blackwell, N. Dickenson, P. Lavas and P. Finlayson, P. Large and P.

The British champion, international master Paul Littlewood, and two more international masters, Michael Basman and Nigel Povah, along with K. Arkell and J. Richardson, had 4. Among the 3½s were the British Lady champion, Sheila Jackson, the former European Junior champion, inter-national master Shaun Taul-but and two further international masters, Robert Bellin and Nigel Davies. The under-16 world cham-pion, Stuart Conquest, scored 3 and celebrated his 15th

It is time to confess that until very recently meringues have not been one of my strong points. Cultivating a preference for chewy bits in the middle was all very well. But it did not disguise what is, technically speaking, a fault. The colour was seldom quite right either, off-brown more often than off-white. And worse still, they usually wept stickily in the oven, cementing themselves firmly on to the baking sheet.

They were, none the less, scrumptious, but not exactly show pieces.

So instead of making Swiss meringue whites. I tried Italian and nine circular bases.

To make meringue nests: brush one or more baking sheets with melted butter, and when it has set, dust with flour. Alternatively, line the sheets with baking parchment. Mark six circles about 9 cm (3½ in) diameter on the prepared sheets.

Fit a large fabric piping bag with a plain nozale of about 1 cm (½ in) diameter. Fill the bag with meringue Another interesting entry was that of the New Zea-lander, C. Laird, who scored 3½ points and succeeded in losing the following minia-ture game in the last round. White; C. Laird Black: S. G. Finlayson Q.P. Dutch De-

In this recipe the sugar is made into a boiling syrup which, when combined with the egg whites, partially cooks them before they reach the oven. It keeps for several days in a covered bowl in the refrigerator and can be used for lightening sorbets or whipped cream, or topping pies, as well as for baking into crisp shells or nests. It seemed useful stuff.

What is more it worked perfectly first time. I still baked as soon as it is made,

Put the sugar in a small pan with the water and heat the mixture gently until the sugar has dissolved com-pletely. Now bring the sugar to the boil and cook it, without stirring until the syrup reaches the hard ball stage. This will register 248°F on a sugar thermometer but can be checked without one. Fill the bag with meringue and pipe circular bases, filling in the outlines from the centre outwards. Then pipe two neat circles, one on top of the other, on the edge of each base to form the walls of the nests.

Bake the meringues at the bottom of a preheated very cool oven (110°C/225°F, gas mark %) for about three hours. Not all oven thermostats work acurately so check the meringues from time to time. If they are beginning to colour, reduce the heat.

To make meringue layers: Mark prepared baking sheets with two large circles of about 23cm (9in) diameter. Pipe a single layer of meringue, filling in the circle from the centre outwards. Alterna-tively, divide the meringue between the two outlines and spread it in an even layer to fill the circles. Bake layers at the same temperatures as

The other work shown is by 20 craftsmen who have been encouraged by the organiser Ann Hartree to think in terms of multiple production. She already shows their furniture, glass, pottery and textiles, at her Prescote Gallery, Cropredy, near Banbury, and she is convinced that to work in small batches at about one third of the costs of one-off commissions is the small workshop's survival kit of the

The bitter winter, coming after a year with above average rainfall, has been hard on our lawns. The last few weeks have been fairly mild and it may be we shall have what all gardeners would wish to be without an early spring. We prefer a late spring which as the old saying goes "never deceives" — that is it does not turn back on itself and damage precocious young growth. If that happens it will be just too bad on top of all the massive damage to plants in December and January.

But the grass is growing now and we should be scarifying the lawn, if we want healthy turf, to rake out dead grass and other rubbish. Small lawns may be vigorously raked by hand with a wire rake, if you have the time and the muscle or somebody to do it for you; or a small electric scarifier will do quite a useful job.

For larger areas it would be worthwhile seeking out a garden machinery hire firm, if you can find one, that will rent out a larger motorized scarifier for a day or a weekend. Maybe two or three friends or neighbours could share the hire cost because one can cover a large area with a powered scanifier in a day. And scarifying does do the lawn a power of good, as does slitting or piercing the turf with a lawn aerator.

Lawns as with the rest of the garden have had lime and nitrogen leached out over the past 12 months by above average rainfall. Lawns on acid soils suffer invasion by acid soils suffer invasion by moss very readily, especially lawns that tend to lie wet, although out of the 40 or more native mosses; there are species which grow happily on quick draining soils that are not acid. All lawns will respond well this year to feeding with a high nitrogen lawn fertilizer, or "furf conditioner" as some firms prefer to call their product. I like to apply the first dose about now and a second application in about four weeks. Scattering a fertilizer on a lawn by hand.

showery and the rain will wash it off the grass. If you have a fairly large area of lawn to treat with fertilizer it would be worth while investing in a fertilizer spreader. These machines are also useful for spreading fertilizer on the vegetable garden and are capable of being adjusted to apply the various fertilizers quite accurately for a given rate of application.

David Hessayon, who has produced several excellent gardening books, has now published The Lawn Expert which he modestly claims is an enlarged edition of the world's best selling book on lawn care. It costs £1.95 and surprisingly good value. Lavishly illustrated in colour throughout, it covers every aspect of lawn making and subsequent lawn care and maintenance.

There have been many different moss killers including those with a mercurious content but this, according to EEC regulations, must not now be sold as a cure for moss - I have not been able to find out why, because mercurious compounds may still be advertised for the control of various turf dis-eases and the rate of appli-cation is far higher than that we used on lawns. So we are glad to welcome Murphy's Tumblemoss which kills the killer is chloroxuron, but Tumblemoss also contains ferric sulphate and urea which help to green up the grass and encourage its growth.

It is recommended that a general lawn fertilizer be applied two weeks after the treatment with Tumblemoss. The makers say that it is harmless to children and ☐ Recently I mentioned that one can only buy mustard, but not cress at the green-grocers' and I wondered why. Had I stopped to think as several readers have kindly pointed out the reason is obvious. Cress takes three days longer to grow than mustard. Mustard (which is not really mustard but rape) which you buy in the shop is ready for sale in about five to seven days. So cress costs the grower about half as much again in the cost of heating the glassbouse. When the wholesaler's and retailer's profit is added, obviously cress is going to cost so much more than mustard that it is certain we will never see it again in the shops when it has to be grown in I have checked the comparative cost of growing mustard on a piece of flannel in a saucer on the kitchen windowsill against a punnet bought from the green-grocer. The punnet cost 10p and contained about 600 seedlings. A packet of seed I bought cost 23p and contained around 1,400 seeds. So if you grow mustard yourself moss in 12 hours and it costs just about as much as prevents its reappearance for the fresh article in the shop. up to 12 months. The moss Obviously, because I cannot buy fresh cress, I cannot say how much cheaper it would be to grow our own. All I can say is that, to me, an egg and mustard sandwich is not the same as an egg, mustard and cress sandwich, so henceforth we will grow our own

Accountants pay £450,000

A record out-of-court £450,000 cash settlement has been paid to the Stok Exchange by Luton-based chartered accountants Keens, Shay Keens over their fole as auditors to City stokbrokers Chapman and Rowe who were hammered in 1974. No liability has been admitted by the accounting firm, none of whose existing partners were engaged on the Chapman and Rowe audit. The Stock Exchange, which charged Keens with failing to carry out a proper audit, paid £925,000 compansation to investors, after the crash.

Seibu, which is on a par with British Home Stores, will develop and manufacture new goods for marketing through Habitat's stores. The joint firm plans to open 10 stores over the next five years - two in Tokyo this year. Sales are to total 20,000 million yen (£441m) by 1985.

Habitat was first courted two years ago by Seibu, run by Mr T Tsutsumi, known in Japan as a bold and enterprising operator. A string of other Japanese also tried to do a deal.

"But Seibu attracted us because they seemed clear that European furniture and design could be introduced into the young Japanese market. I see a great future for Habitat there," Mr Cou-

The banks wasted no time in matching the building societies' - mortgage rates. National Westminster immediately cut its rate by 1 per cent to 13.5 per cent. NatWest customers start the new rate on paying the new rate on March 16. Barclays was next to move reducing its rate to 13.75 per cent but the actual monthly repayments are lower than those quoted by NatWest.

Cheapest place to borrow for loans under £20,000 is the TSB which brought its mortgage rate down to 12.5 per cent for loans under £20,000, 13.5 per cent above. TSB also throws in free life assurance.

Midland and Lloyds have not moved but an announce-ment is expected early next week as they will not be able to afford to stay out of line. been over the new issue of index linked gilt edged securities. These link an attractive bet for all taxpayers provided they are allocated at their face value of £100 for every £100. of £100 for every £100 nominal of stock — cheaper. At anything above this level, granny bonds look a better bet.

The new index-linked gilts are particularly attractive to higher rate taxpayers, and like other gilts they are free of capital gains tax if held for more than a year. The application which appeared in news-papers in Thursday look a little daunting, but it is worth ploughing through the small print — or handing it all over to your bank manager or stockbroker to deal with. On page 17 Sally White explains how to cope if you intend to Go for gilts — they are as good as granny bonds

For investors the most innovative change in the innovative change in the Chancellor's Budget was the opening up of index-linked gilts to individuals. An issue has been announced with application forms already published in daily newspapers, and investors should not be put off by the forms' complicated appearance.

If you "tender" for the new index-linked gilts at the nominal price of £100 for £100 of stock, they are as attractive as granny bonds. At anything cheaper — £99 or £98 per £100 — they are a bargain and provided you can afford to have your money locked up for a possible six years, they are an attractive proposition for taxpayers.

Unlike granny bonds which can be sold back to the Government after 12 months for the full index-linked value, investors in the new index-linked gilt must sell their stock in the market if they want to cash-in before redemption date. The unknown quantity is how the gilt market will react in pricing these stocks so investors should be prepared to hold them the full six

For this reason, investors ror uns reason, investors requiring income should be wary of purchasing. Both capital and income from these gilts is indx linked, but the initial return_is low only 2 per cent. Like conventional gilts they are free of capital gains tax if held for nore then a year.

Tendering for the stock — application forms have to be at the Bank of England's new issue department by 10am on Friday — is not difficult once you know how. Stockbrokers Laurie Millbank have worked out for us a range of prices to "tender" depending on how great a premium over the rate of inflation you think is reasonable. The think is reasonable. The Chancellor believes inflation

The cheque should be for half the nominal or face value of the stock — £50 for each £100 of stock. The balance has to be paid by April 29. The form and cheque should be at the Bank

The capital redemption is the most attractive element to invested since it is tax-free after a year. Taking the July 1981 base, and the starting 9 per cent inflation for this year, Laurie Millbank have gone on to use the conservative Treasury assumption of per cent inflation for the equent year and extending this rate to 1988.

That gives the redemption sum of £152.10 for each £100. Of course, if the Government forecast is optimistic then the redemption sum will be higher. If inflation undershoots, then the redemption payment drops.

MONEY TALK Improved terms for investors

For building society inves-tors the choice of extra-interest accounts is truly mind-boggling.

Most accounts pay 1 per cent over the building societies' recommended rate, but there are varying terms for withdrawal. Societies have recently been improving the terms of these accounts generally reducing the notice period and easing the bed and breakfasting counts as a proper disposal, the investor is caught by the one year rule - he will not benefit from any index-linking in the twelve months

For owners of second homes and other property the new provisions will provide welcome relief ... Capital gains tax on property should be virtually eliminated.

Bed and breakfast is the term used to describe the operation by which investors can establish a capital gain or loss for tax purposes without having to dispose of their investments for ever. It is usually done around now before the end of the tax year on April 5.

Typically, where an investor is showing both losses and profits, by bed and breakfasting he can offset the losses against the profits, keeping his overall profit to within the individual exemption limit - currently £3,000. With the dawn of index-linking the investor has to

If you bed and breakfast you establish a £250 loss which can be set against other gains, but you have a new base line of only E750 and you will have to wait another year before the index-linking starts again.

If you hang on to the shares, you retain the higher base line for calculating capital gains and are eligible for the highest increase. for any index-linked increases in the base line during the following 12 months. Assuming a further 10 per cent inflation this would mean a base line of £1,452.

breakfasted earlier will pay CGT on only £48 — the excess over the new base line of £1,452. The investor who bed and breakfasted at ££750 would have saved a maximum of £75 in CGT - 30 per cent of the £250 loss established but will now have a CGT

You may want to be bed and breakfast a profit to utilize your exemption, but you will have to take into account the subsequent loss of one year's index-linking.

It may however, pay you to establish a higher base line for your shares even at the expense of sacrificing one year's index-linking. Suppose you buy £1,000 of shares which rise to £1,500 over two years. If the RPI moves up years. If the RPI moves up by 10 per cent in that second year the base cost for tax purpses is £1,100. Bed and breakfasting will however have established a new base cost of £1,500 — higher than you would obtain by simply hanging on to your shares.

In cases of a marginal gain, however, it could be that the rate of inflation outstrips the gain. The wise investor will take professional advice.

The Vanbrugh Flexible Retirement Plan is built on some of the most generous tax concessions ever offered to one section of the community.

* Up to 171/2% of net relevant earnings can be invested in a pension plan to qualify for tax relief of up to 60p in the £.

* This relief can be claimed in respect of unused relief for the previous 6 years.

* All investment income and capital gains accumulate in tax exempt funds. Pensions do not attract investment income surcharge. Death benefits can normally be arranged without liability to Capital Transfer Tax.

Such advantages are, of course, common to all self-employed pension plans, but with the Vanbrugh Flexible Retirement Plan they are only the beginning of a uniquely attractive investment proposition

THE LOANBACK FACILITY.

You can now invest in a pension plan without locking up your money until you retire. Vanbrugh's LOANBACK FACILITY may allow you to borrow back a sum equal to the value of your accumulated funds at any time between now and retirement. The net interest on the loan accrues for the benefit of your own pension plan.

Plus a lump sum available immediately Investors in the Vanbrugh Flexible Retirement Plan may now borrow up to fifteen times their initial annual investment (subject to security and credit worthiness) from Forward Trust Limited, a subsidiary of Midland Bank, allowing investors to boost their liquidity immediately. Written quotations are available from Vanbrugh Pensions

Cook earns the biggest cheer Australia down early

From John Woodcock, Cricket Correspondent Johannesburg, March 12

Gooch sent someone down there. A slowish pitch, less thickly grassed than most of them here, provided occasional movement off the seam. To get among the wickets — the Englishmen need to hold their catches, which they failed to do. Cook was missed four times — once, a difficult diving chance to Knott, and three times in the slips. Since the ground was first used in 1956-57, during the MCC tour of that winter, the blue gums, which separate it from the Wanderers Golf course, have grown to be almost as tall as the pylons. In those days from the press In those days, from the press box, we were able to watch Bobby Locke preparing to win another British Open. There would have been no question then of the South

After Richards had been caught at short extra cover, half-stopping a drive at Underwood, Kirsten came in and played the best innings of the day. By the close of play, South Africa, with so much beiting to come, had given a very fair idea of just how good a side they would still be, against Australia, West Indies or anyone else in the world.

The blacks in the crowd stayed on to cheer Cook to his 100, and with an hour left, Gooch knew what it was like not to have the howling he needed. The South Africans scored 75 in the morning, 82 in the afternoon and 120 after teg — the three sessions each being of two hours.

The English bowling showed up the lack of variation that is common to every English side, at virtually every level. Only Underwood officered anything slower than medium pace. I liked the look of Taylor. He has a useful whippiness about him and a good, strong build. He could play for England this year if he is allowed to.

Old bowled unluckily and well, if you can be said to bowl well and yet walk back to bowl so slowly. Lever, too, did nothing to help the over-rate — a wretched 13.5 an hour. He seemed at times to forget that he was not in India any more. Once when he had a any more. Once, when he had a wide called against him, he made such an unholy fuss about it that we were shown how to stop a game in its tracks.

The Australians committed to their own downfall. Their most successful batsmen of recent successful batsmen of recent times, Chappell and Border, were run out off successive deliveries midway through the afternoon. Chappell had been in superlative form, striking 32 runs from 36 deliveries, with six boundaries, when his partner Dyson turned a Hadlee delivery to Cairns at fine leg. Chappell called "wair" but was committed to the run when Dyson kept going. Cairns' quick pick-up and return just beat the Australian captain.

Border capitulated in an amateurish fashion. The only delivery he faced hit him on the pad and ran away to gully. Border meandered down the pitch and although Coney's throw missed the stumps, Crowe, backing up at tower returned the

through By Keith Macklin

One of the more surprising features of the quarter-finals of the Challenge Cup, sponsored by State Express, is that Widnes, the holders, are listed only as third favourites by the bookmakers. Widnes, who have appeared in five of the last seven finals and won three of them, are listed in the betting behind Hull and Leigh, a judgment which may cost the commission agents dearly.

RUGBY LEAGUE

Widnes, in their hard-earned victory at Wigan in the last round, seemed ready for yet another Wembley appearance, despite their long injury list. Like Liverpool in the other football world, they seem able to pluck players from trees or from holes in the ground in times of crisis.

This afternoon for the tough game against Bradford Northern at Odsal, they will be without Cunningham, Burke, Gregory and Lockwood. The loss of such fine players would cripple most sides but Widnes can call upon skifful replacements in John and Tony Myler, Hulme and Steve O'Neill.

Northern have one or two injury problems, but not of the same scale as Widnes. It will be a battle royal, as always between these sides, but I expect Widnes' professionalism and teamwork to win the day.

The other three ties will be The other three ties will be played tomorrow. The most attractive, in open rugby terms, could be at Leigh where Castleford will match the home side move for move. Leigh have no injury problems, but Castleford are likely to be without their player-coach Malcolm Renlly.

Hull, installed as favourites, would appear to have the easiest tie with the visit of the second division side, Halifax. However, Halifax are brave cup fighters who reached a semi-final a couple of seasons ago, and they could upset Hull if the Humbersiders are too compleant. are too complacent.

Borg test closed to public

By Rex Bellamy Tennis Correspondent

Tennis Correspondent

Something positive has at lest emerged from the finss about Bjorn Borg, but even this positive decision will be negative in its effects. Should Borg decide to compete at Wimbledon and should he be compelled to qualify, spectators will not be admitted to the Bank of England ground at Roehampton, where the qualifying competition is played. A private club have that found a legitimate means of avoiding large crowds they are not able to manage.

The championships committee have been discussing the most deal with problems that could deal with problems that could arise from the tendentious rules of the grand prix competition. These insist that players cannot be granted direct entry in to tournaments unless they agree to support 10 grand prix events other than the French, Wimbledon and United States champion-don and United States champiouships.

That rule was designed to coerce leading players to support the grand prix rather than the rival World Championship Tennis circuit, and to exploit their reputations to the full. But Borg does not want to play as much tournament tennis as that

So, nuless the rules are mended, circumvented, or ignored, he must qualify for any grand prix tournament he wishes to contest.
That this should happen

Leeds are another side for whom the thoughts of Wembley act like a huge dose of adrenalin. No matter how mediocre their league performances, and that has been the summary of their season so far, Leeds are dangerous opponents in cup ties. Wakefield Trimity, struggling in the first division, may find this to their cost tomorrow.

That this should happen to a man who has five times been champion of Wimbledon and six times champion of France is, of course, ridiculous. Wimbledon are discussing the situation with the organisers of the French and US championships. Meantime they reserve the right to defer the seedings and draw until the qualifying competition has been completed.

Liverpool, the old rulers who have gained nine titles in the last six years, are challenged by Tottenham Hotspur, the young pretenders with four trophies sitting on their shelf of possibilities, for the League Cup this afternoon. They have behind them an unbeaten sequence of 16 matches that has filled their balloon of confidence with helium and, most significantly of all perhaps, must be comforted by their remarkable Wembley record: In eight appearances there, they have yet to lose. Liverpool were thwarted in their first League Cup final four years ago by an almost unknown young goalkeeper, Woods, then Shilton's deputy at Nottingham Forest. Now they face a famuos older goalkeeper. Clemence, who last season beiped them claim the trophy that had for so long eluded them. Clemence started the season disastrously in the Charlty Shield but has since kept 23 clean sheets and has not conceded a goal in the competition.

Liverpool's defence was perturbed earlier in the season more by the wild behaviour of Clemence's successor, Grobbelaar, than by the opposition. But he has curbed his alarming eccentricities to be beaten only 10 nimes in his ast 18 outings. The absence of the injured Hausen, though, could prove crucial. Moscow, March 12.—Vladimir Salnikov, winner of three gold medals at the 1980 Olympics, lopped almost a second off the men's 400 metres freestyle world record today.

After failing to set a new record at several meetings in the early season, Salnikov began carefully. He was shoulder to shoulder with East Germany's Potziersky for the first two lengths, Three Chinese women and three men made the quarter-final rounds. Ray Stevens, England's number one, who yesterday put out Yang Gno-Liang, the top-seeded Chinese, received his come-uppance today. He led 7—3 but faded to a 15—7, 15—2 defeat to an Indonesian, Icuk Sugiarto: "I tried to soften him up and then look for holes in his defence, but I got tired", he said. Nick Yates, the England number three, was beaten 15—7, 7—15, 15—10 by the Chinese, He Shang-Quan, the national champion, Jane Webster, lost 11—3, 11—5 to the Korean, Yoon Suk Kim, and it was the number two, Kevin Jolly, who was England's only survivor.

Jolly bas been at odds with the selectors since being omitted from the triangular match against Sweden and Japan more than a fortinght ago but now was back to his best, Ialaini Sideq, the Malaysian likely to figure prominently against England in the Thomas Cup in May, was dismissed 15—2, 15—5.

Young man sets a hot pace

Ballesteros started with a birdie, holing from 15 feet and he eagled the 532 yards 15th with a tremendous drive, a two iron to 12 feet and a solid putt. SQUASH RACKETS

The last-16 round of the Mc-Ewan's Lager tournament, being played at Stockton YMCA, is dominated by six Australians and five Pakistanis, with five other nations each represented by one player, Rex Beliamy writes. The most surprising result in the first round was the defeat of the tenth seed. Gawain Briars of Britain, who has recently been in good form.

Briars was beaten by the once formidable Mohibullah Khan, who is struggling to regain his former eminence after injury and illness. There can be little doubt that the first prize of £2,285 will be won by the world champion Jahangir Khan, aged 18, who has not been beaten since Geoff Runt precariously got the better of itim in the final of the British Open championship at Bromley last April.

Like everyone else in the Stockton draw, Jahangir is on his toes because he is aware that there will be only one more tournament, at Chichester, before this season's British championship.

stitute's bench and the No 12 shirt will go to Roberts. Souness carries Liverpool's stamp of authority, keeping a tight control over their economic possession. The elusive McDermott represents a danger with those characteristic, long runs from deep into the space vacated by Dalglish. Whelan has blossomed into an outstanding prospect but may be overawed by the atmosphere, as may Rush, their leading scorer with 22 goals. It all promises so much and, with both clubs standing on the threshold of European semi-linals, it becomes an important steppingstone to the rest of the season. Whoever wins, Tottenham's supporters will know that the two trophies, the old and the new, will be lifted by one of their "old boys". "But there is a lot of tension and Wembley on final day and I jest hope we can relax and play like I know we can. If Liverpool do the same, we couldy be in for a hell of a game."

There lies the key to the kingdom of Wembley. The two sides both current cup holders, are suffuely balanced that nerves, even the flutter of one butterfly, may be enough to unlock a tie that is sure to be heavily guarded. Who ever settles first will emerge triumphant. Form and history, unreliable guides though they may be on such an occasion, suggest that it will be Spurs.

Liverpool, the European champions, are letting slip the mantle of invincibility that they once wore with such panache. Cunningham call-up

The last time Ron Greenwood, England's manager, saw Laurle Cunningham, he was lying in a hospital bed recovering from injury in January. The next time he sees him will be in Bilbao, the industrial city that will become England's adopted home during the first round of the World Cop this summer, Stuart Jones writes. Cunningham, a talented black winger formerly of Orient and West Bromwich Albion, moved to Real Madrid for a fee of fim in June 1979 but his Spanish carcer itas been riddled by leg affments. He gained the last of his six international caps as a substitute in the qualifying group match against Romania

Mr Greenwood has included him against Athletic Bilbao on Tuesday week and explained: "It is easy for him to travel up from Madrid and it would be stupid not to have him in the squad." Last Saturday they beat Sale 30—3, a somewhat misleading result since Sale lost both their flankers in the first laif through injury; three tries came from the No. 8 Simpson, and their halves, Young and Johnson, hardly let the ball out at all. The pattern may be the same froday, with Gosforth striving to keep the ball away from Leicester's bety of international backs. Ten of the XV which lost to Leicester in last season's cup final remain and they will not discount Leicester's frequently under-rated forwards, who welforted Joyce back to the second row but were waiting last night for fitness decisions on their two props. Liverpool field the same XV which ploped Bristol in the last round when they play Moseley at the Reddings, another ground far from its best just now. Here are two teams who delight in open rugby, particularly now that the former Wrekin College half-back pair. Perry and Sutherland, have renewed their partnership at club level for Moseley. Liverpool may be the north's best bet for a semifinal place; they have not lost since November 21 last year.

Little change in laws

The conclusions of the International Board (IB), whose annual meeting closed yesterday in London, are notable mainly for the fact that they produced no conclusions at all on topics which have aroused so much interest this season. In view of the time delay between proposals being admitted and action taken, this is not entirely surprising but it was disappointing to hear that the laws rewrite sub-committee no longer exists, David Hands writes.

As my colleague Gerald Davies laws rewrite sub-committee no longer exists, David Hands writes.

As my colleague Gerald Davies pointed out earlier this week, there is a crying need for the laws to be more clearly defined but now the IB have reverted to their former position, in which member countries present their individual proposals. It was emphasized vesterday by Roger Vanderfield (Australia), the IB's laws spokesman, that the rewrite committee's work had produced many submissions.

Dr Vanderfield suggested that the main item for the IB's consideration next year would be offences covered by free kicks and penalties. But there has obviously been disagreement among members over the rewrite committee's overall recommendations and the suggestion by Wales that the penalty goal should be reduced in value to two poluts.

The main changes to the laws metre marks.

In the first instance the IB felt three-man scrums could be dangerous and regard the move as a safety measure; in the second it was felt the furthest player concept currently propounded in law 23 served no useful purpose and encouraged players to contrive a penalty. The new tackle law instituted this season has not, it was felt, been given sufficient time to prove its worth.

season. The Amateur Athletic Association have been poorly rewarded for attracting the Americans to a country patifully short of indoor facilities.

If the International Amateur Athletic Federation's president, Primo Nebiolo, successfully campaigns for a Kuropean Indoor circuit of meetings, the chances are Britain will be unable to offer a suitable venue. Andy Norman, the AAA's offical primarily responsible for arranging matches is among those who deplore the lack of sites.

The erosion of today's programme is only partly to blame for slow ticket sales. Admittedy, indoor athletics has a large contingent of detractors who treat the sport with the sort of disdain cricket purists look upon the one-day game, but the remoteness of Cosford is an obvious deterrent. After visiting Milan this week, the Americans will find this converted hanger comparatively spartain.

The American team could have been stronger but they bring three national indoor champions and hopes of winning every event, British male athletes generally disappointed at last weekend's European champion-ships with only the hurdler. HOCKEY

Ten Up (3.20) is my selection for the Hunter-Chase, even though he has not run under rules this season. The horse, aged 15, who won the Cheltenham Gold Cup in 1975 when he was an eight-year-old, showed that he was as sprightly as ever when he wom a point-to-point two weeks ago at Twesedown by four lengths. So the stage looks set lengths. So the stage looks set for Ballyross and Ten Up to complete a rather curious double. Skegby landed a resounding top weight victory in the Binbrook Handicap Steeplechase and provided the going is not too soft at Cheltenham will contest the Ritz Club National Hunt Chase on Thursday.

It was after Skegby's win, which earned him a 3lb penathy at Cheltenham, that a brief snow-storm swept the course and it was decided to abandon the following 13-runner novices' steeplechase.

With Gary cook already having more withdrawn as a consequence of meazles, England are represented by Colin Sawed, of Birchfield, who faces Anthony Blair, the arch. American who ran the world's fastest indoor 400 metres of the season on Wethersday.

Harry King, who reached the semi-finals of the 60 metres in the European championships, is improving magnificently, but will probably have his performances put in perspective by Mel Lattanty who this week ran 6.60 seconds, the fastest time in the world this year. Another American likely to fing make the jobrnity worthwhile is Larry Myricks, who was the second best long jump competitor in: the world last season with 8.45 metres.

Such conditions usually deter even the hardiest professional, but young Chaurin saw a chance to make a name for himself. With 27 miles ridden, he attacked suddenly just before a sharp, slippery bend.

The tall six-footer never fahered and when he reached the banks of the Seine at Montercau, the main bunch was still nearly three miles back down the road.

Eventually, the mass sprint for second place was decisively won by the champion of Belgium, Roger De Blasmanck.

● MANON (BBC 2, 7.40pm), Kenneth MacMillan's three-ac st, danced by the Royal Ballet is an honest to goodness record of the production performed on the stage of the Royal Opera House, stage of the Hoyse Operation ago.

Covent Garden, two months ago.

Nothing added. Nothing subtracted. Discreet camerawork which does not lop off arms and legs, but keeps the whole dencer in shot when it is essential that we should know how an emotion is. born and how it then travels along arms, down trunks, and into legs. When the camera-does go in closer, it is only to scan faces more keenly, and it chooses its moments well i.e. not during the dance. Colin Nears, the director, may not have proceed this admirable technique for filming ballet, but clearly he is the man who is perfecting it. The ballet a fine quartet of principal dancers in Jennifer Penny (Manon), Anthony Dowell (Des Grieux), Devid Wall (Lescaut) and Derek Rencher (Monsieur G. M.); the design, by Nicholas Georgiadis carries constant reminders of the rags from which Manon briefly graduates to riches, and the esenet themes, newly arranged and orchestrated, provide a score which has offered Kenneth MacMillan much scope for his glits as a choreographer who is as finely tuned to Abbé Prévost's sensual tale as Puccini and Massenet were when Manon in the opera house.

 Radio choices: The Welsh National Opera's production of I PURITANI live from Cardiff (Radio 3, 7,15pm); and Michael Wall's cautionary story about an East-West relationship.JAPANESE STYLE (Radio 3, 2.05). Very touching theme and very ely played by Megumi Shimnuki and Michael Cochrains on Radio 2'(3.00) that you can follow the whole of the Spurs v Liverpool Cup Final game at Wembley.

How the crow people survive without sweat glands

By Annabel Ferriman, Health Services Correspondent

Without the natural coolprovide, frequent immersion in water is necessary and the crow people are often seen swimming or pouring buckets of water over them-

Letter from Barnsley

Why the Rotterdam four may mar Mason's maths

If things go according to plan, just about the time this newspaper drops through your letter box this morning four delegates to Barnsley constituency Labour Party will have started a 60-mile dash from Hull to Barnsley to vote at the reselection conference of Mr Roy Mason, the Labour MP who, coincidentally, today begins his thirtieth year as Barnsley's representative at Westminster. He is being challenged by Mr Jack Brown, a local educationist and well known left-wing activist.

It is no secret that Mr Mason is too moderate for Mr Ma educationist and well known left-wing activist.

The delegates, part of a coach party of 40 from the South Yorkshire European constituency, have spent the past week at Strasbourg observing the workings of the European Parliament. The reselection conference has been timed for 10am today, and the delegates' ferry, the MV Norstar from Rotterdam to Hull, was not Rotterdam to Hull, was not due to dock until Sam. If delegates are not in their places at the start of the reselection conference they are selection conference they are not permitted to vote or even to attend the meeting. The Rotterdam four will have their work cut out.

When they made atteunts to have the timing of the meeting moved to a more confortable hour they were hotly opposed by the left wing of the constituency party, the most notable member of which was Mr Atthur ber of which was Mr Arthur Scargill, president of the Yorkshire miners and president-elect of the National Union of Mineworkers. The Union of Mineworkers. The timing stood.

Most observers believe that Mr Mason will have a relatively easy ride. Mr Mason's hope, however, is that not too many people take that view because it could lead to too few of his supporters attending the conference.

Mr Mason's position is far ing the conference.

Mr Mason's position is far from clear. He is an NUM-stomsored MP and has been all his political life. In the past two years Barnsley constituency 'Labour Party has been taken over by left-wing miners' delegates who occupy all posts except that of vice-chairman, held by Mr Brown.

Instructed how he must vote. It was therefore against the run of play when Mr Scargill announced last May that Yorkshire NUM-sponsored MPs would not be opposed by union nominees in this series of reselection conferences. The reason given was that the whole process would have to be undertaken again on the redrawing again on the redrawing of constituency boundaries, which is expected in 1983, in time for the next general time for the next general election.

On the face of it, therefore, Mr Mason should be reasonably confident. He has obtained 45 nominations including eight branches of the NUM, nine branches of the Transport and General Workers' Union to which his opponent, Mr Brown belongs, and smaller numbers of 13 and smaller numbers of 13 other trade unions, as well as other trade unious, as well as a majority of ward parties. Mr Brown has secured four nominations, one each from his own branch of the TGWU and his ward party and two—the ward party and women's section—from Wordsbrough, where, coincidentally, Mr and Mrs Scargill live.

dentally, Mr and Mrs Scargill live.

Even so, Mr Mason is still not at ease. Of the forty-five branch nominations, four or five are ineligible to vote because their delegates have not attended a meeting of the constituency party in the past twelve months. Many miners' branches will simply not send delegates, considering Mr Mason's success a fait accompli.

Another imponderable is that although Mr Scargill and his area council colleagues his area council colleagues have taken a decision not to opoose Mr Mason and his fellow sponsored MPs with other NUM nominees, when the cards are down the area council has no say in how NUM branch delegates vote. It is a free vote and a secret

Bottle Banks

1982 is Glass Recycling Year and there are now 700 Bottle Bank sites in 320 towns and cities throughout Britain, raising large sums of money for community projects and charities. Call your local Council Environmental Officer to see if they run a scheme in your area; or for nearest location and advice leaflet contact Peter Mansfield, Recycling Year Bureau, Glass Manufacturers Federation. 19 Portland Place, London WC1; (tel: 01-580 6952).

The Federation is running a children's competition to design a poster advertisement promoting Bottle Banks; details and free stickers and wallchart explaining glass recycling protesses from GMF (address above).
